PRESS RELEASE

Islamabad (December 15, 2004): Professor Khurshid Ahmad has expressed his shock and horror on the American threat to invade Iran on the pretext of non-compliance with IAEA Agreement on Nuclear Management.

“This threat is not to Iran alone, but to the entire region. It is also a challenge to international law and protocols. Pakistan and other countries of the region must strongly condemn this declaration of intent to invade Iran by the US and take all necessary steps to nip the evil in the bud”. He added.

“It is time America is told that any attack at Iran on any such pretext would be an attack on the countries of the region including Pakistan, Turkey and the Gulf. If the countries of the region want to protect their strategic assets they must ensure that Iran’s sovereignty is not violated. This is the only way the countries of the region can contain American brinkmanship in the area”, the Senator emphasized.

“The UN should also be moved, although the American Veto there has rendered UN Security Council almost ineffective as far as ensuring peace and security for the weaker nations of the world is concerned”, Prof. Khurshid Ahmad, concluded.
